28th ANNUAL GALA RESILIENCY

LOMA LINDA UNIVERSITY CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

Loma Linda University (LLU) Children's Hospital is proud to partner with our community on this beautiful evening as we rise up to support whole-child care. The COVID-19 pandemic has made unbearable circumstances only worse as children of the Inland Empire are disproportionately affected by abuse, neglect and other adverse childhood experiences. At Loma Linda University Children's Health, we are dedicated to caring for all children, making them whole in mind, body and spirit.

LLU Children's Hospital provides the highest level of trauma care for the 1.2 million children of San Bernardino, Riverside, Inyo and Mono counties – making it your Children's Hospital.

Tonight's proceeds, with your support, will contribute to our mission and help the children in our communities reach a place of wholeness. LLU Children's Hospital continues to be a place of compassionate care where we champion the health and safety of children in our local and global communities.

LETTER FROM FOUNDATION CHAIR

Dear Friends,

We are excited you've joined us for our 28th Annual Loma Linda University Children's Hospital Foundation Gala – Resiliency.

In the past, our galas have supported areas of pediatric healthcare we are accustomed to learning about – pediatric cardiac care, neonatal intensive care, pediatric cancer and, most recently, our new Children's Hospital tower.

This year's event is unique for many reasons, because tonight we will make a difference in the unspoken areas of children's lives, as they battle this pandemic in ways we could never have envisioned.

Tonight's Resiliency Gala strives to reveal the unbearable circumstances some children of the Inland Empire are experiencing – abuse, neglect, depression – made worse by the COVID-19 pandemic.

These topics are hard to hear, particularly when children are impacted. As adults, our responsibility is to give voice to silenced children and rise up for their support, not turn away in our discomfort.

Please join me tonight by recognizing that whole-child care includes mind, body and spirit. We have the ability to bring hope and healing to the children in our communities.

Thank you for choosing to be a part of this evening.

Sincerely,

LETTER FROM ADMINISTRATOR

Dear Friends,

Welcome to our 28th Annual Loma Linda University Children's Hospital Foundation Gala – Resiliency. We've said that word, resiliency, many times this past year so let's take a moment to consider its meaning.

Resiliency is defined as the capacity to recover quickly from difficulties. We all know this past year has been anything but "quick." In fact, this year has been long and challenging for all of us. However, as adults, we have a responsibility to future generations to be resilient, to lead by example, pull through and continue on.

Imagine experiencing the pandemic through the eyes of a child. Now, imagine this same child facing peril in the form of trauma, threats, food insecurity or neglect. The unacceptable reality is children in our communities face tremendous adversity every day and the pandemic has only worsened life for many of them.

Tonight, we are coming together to support the whole-child concept of resiliency for children. Our objective is to provide children with the tools they need to recover from stressful events in their childhood, so they can be trusting, curious and brave. We want to equip children to grow up and reach for their long-term goals.

Thank you for your participation tonight as we help to shape the future for children who endure extreme circumstances.

Please enjoy the evening.

LETTER FROM PRESENTING SPONSOR

Good evening,

As a family, we are honored to come together and support the young patients at Loma Linda University Children's Hospital as the Presenting Sponsors of the 28th Annual Foundation Gala – Resiliency.

This evening's theme is especially relevant as we support our most vulnerable children during National Child Abuse Prevention Month. While it is uncomfortable to acknowledge the neglect and trauma children in our community experience, it is no reason to turn our heads and hearts away. Tonight, we shine a light on this need and we ask that you join us.

There is incredible hope when a community comes together to bring healing to the most vulnerable among us. Tonight, you are a part of that community and we thank you for joining us on this journey.

Three handwritten signatures in black ink. The first signature is 'Alaina Mathews', the second is 'Nathan Mathews', and the third is 'Alexis Leyva'.

HEATHER FROGLEAR

As an announcer for K-FROG radio station, mother to a Children's Hospital patient and a Loma Linda University Children's Hospital board member, Heather Froglear is an enthusiastic advocate for pediatric healthcare. Combining her talent and passion, Heather Froglear has helped K-FROG raise more than $5 million to benefit Loma Linda University Children's Hospital.

PAYGE'S STORY

Payge was rushed to LLU Children's Hospital in July of 2018 after being removed from her home by San Bernardino County Sheriff's deputies. She had been extremely malnourished and neglected.

At three months of age, Payge was skeletal looking.

"She had a significant yeast infection on her skin under her neck, in her diaper area and legs," said Melissa Siccama, MD, a forensic pediatrician at Children's Hospital. "She was very cachectic, meaning she had no subcutaneous fat on her body. You could see her ribs, her sternum — you could see her bones."

Siccama told the deputies that if they had not found Payge, she could have died within several days.

"Her case was one of the worst cases that I have ever seen," Siccama said.

Doctors like Siccama and Amy Young-Snodgrass, MD, who specialize in child abuse pediatrics at Children's Hospital, were committed to Payge's care and determined to help her survive.

After days in the hospital, Payge began to improve and gain weight under the watchful and attentive care of the physicians, nurses and staff. Her recovery was nothing short of miraculous.

Now three years old and thriving, Payge is in the loving care of her forever family. Her former foster family adopted her in 2020.

Payge's mother, Dawn Huff, says she loves LLU Children's Hospital and is thankful for the community effort that brought Payge into her family's life.

"I look back at the scrapbook I've made of her photos and am shocked to see how tiny and sickly she was," Dawn says. "She was this emaciated baby so close to death and now she's going to turn three and is just amazing — her personality, the fighting spirit she has. She's come so far."

NEURONAVIGATION: GPS FOR THE BRAIN

Each year, LLU Children's Hospital treats over 1,200 children for neurological disorders and conditions from our region and others across the United States. Nearly one in every five of these patients requires neurosurgery to address their condition or injury, a procedure that demands the most accurate equipment.

The brain is the most complex structure in the universe, housing more than 100 billion neurons. Inside the brain is an abundance of eloquent areas containing fragile brain tissue and areas that are sensitive to surgical manipulation. Even more challenging, there are no surface landmarks for safe passage into deep structures, making pediatric neurosurgery a delicate and precarious operation where every millimeter counts.

Neuronavigation equipment is critical for helping surgeons perform safe and accurate life-saving brain surgery while preserving brain function. The most commonly asked question of a neurosurgeon is, "Will my child be the same after surgery?"

To help support the most positive outcomes for every patient, we are raising funds for the purchase of an S8 Medtronic neuronavigation system — the most advanced neurosurgery equipment available for children.

Please join us today to expand the potential of our pediatric neurosurgeons to heal without constraints.

2020 RECIPIENT OF THE DR. LEONARD L. BAILEY OUTSTANDING CLINICIAN AWARD

RICARDO PEVERINI, MD

Long before he became president of Loma Linda University Faculty Medical Group — an entity comprising nearly 1,100 physicians — Ricardo Peverini, MD, possessed a strong passion for infant patient care and creating mechanisms to enhance care. With a powerful combination of skills, Peverini has served Loma Linda University Health for 32 years and contributed to the organization's mission in profoundly significant ways as a dedicated clinician and pioneering administrator.

A native of Uruguay, Peverini came with his family to the United States. Ultimately becoming a physician specializing in neonatology, Peverini's journey to healthcare started with an interest in numbers and systems. Prior to medical school, he completed a bachelor's degree in biophysics and mathematics, followed by a master's degree in computing science.

With this foundation, Peverini came to Loma Linda University to study medicine and work as a pediatrics resident with a fellowship in neonatology. He would later earn a master's degree in medical informatics from Stanford University.

Today, colleagues describe Peverini as being ultra-dedicated to his work as a clinician. He is tremendously skilled at deciphering what a sick infant may be experiencing. He also brings a gentle, sympathetic way of helping parents understand what they're facing and the possible solutions. He frequently stays with patients and their families long into the evening, offering reassurance and a listening ear to help them process their fear. He's also known as an excellent teacher of his specialty.

Beyond his clinical work, Peverini has been a major force in contributing to world-class care in the region. Shortly after becoming division chief of neonatology in 1998, he established two endowments that help support the department's mission of caring for preterm infants and those with congenital diseases. He also worked to continually improve support to clinicians, using his skills to examine numbers and metrics to consolidate departments and structures, saving money and other resources.

Peverini created what was the organization's first widely-adopted electronic medical charting process, enabling himself and other clinicians to spend more time with patients and their families. Even with the adoption of vendor systems — the implementation of which he led — clinicians still periodically access data from Peverini's original system and speak highly of its design.

For his lifelong dedication and distinguished service provided to his infant patients and to his colleagues at Loma Linda University Health, the Children's Hospital Foundation is honored to recognize Ricardo Peverini, MD, with the Outstanding Clinician Award.

HOMETOWN HERO AWARD

The Hometown Hero Award recognizes the contributions of individuals who share our passion for children and help enrich the quality of life in our communities. The Loma Linda University Children's Hospital Foundation is grateful to those individuals whose commitment means a brighter future for the children's lives they have touched.

Many Strengths. One Mission.

When anxiety, stress and depression become overwhelming, it's hard to see the light. But at Loma Linda University Behavioral Health, our patients find strength. Strength in defeating addiction. Strength in overcoming eating disorders. And strength in innovative therapies that offer a brighter path. Too many people suffer in silence. It's time to speak up. We're listening.
